

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Based the research that has been done by the researcher through analysis of text in an interactive book published by Intan Pariwara, the researcher concludes several contents in this study as follows :

1. The aims of this research which wants to know and describe the moral values in students' English book at the first grade senior high school. In the students' EFL textbook, There are 13 moral values found in this EFL textbook, namely honesty, discipline, hardworking, creativeness, independence, curiosity, love homeland, rewarding achievement, friendly/communicative, joy of reading, environmental care, social care and responsibility. There are some moral values not found in this book, such as: religiosity, tolerance, democratic, spirit of nationally, and love peace.
2. The results reveal that there are moral values in the Interactive English book by Intan Pariwara which are presented through the title of the chapter, objective chapter, quotes, pictures, exercise instruction, and example of sentence. Moral values presented in the textbook can be used as a guide student's daily life. This EFL English textbook for first grade establish a good relationship with themselves, society and also students environmental.

B. SUGGESTION

From the results and discussions in research above, there is some suggestion that the researcher intends to convey:

1. For the academics that know and read the results of this research, the researcher suggests them to implementing moral values adapted from the students' English textbook in their daily lives.
2. For the teachers to apply the moral values contained in the textbook in accordance with the 2013 curriculum to students well.
3. For students who read the results of this study, the researcher suggests to apply moral values in their life, school and also their environment.